On April 4th, 2023 Deputy Matthew Purcell, Officer Casey Goble and Communication Officer Andrew Knudsen were presented with Life-Saving Awards.

In the early morning hours of February 18, 2023 Kingman County received a 911 call about an unresponsive patient. Communication Officer Knudsen received the call, dispatched officers to the location and helped provide status updates and direction between law enforcement and Kingman EMS.

Under direction of Kingman EMS, Deputy Purcell and Officer Goble alternated giving CPR to the patient. The patient was successfully resuscitated and was transported to a hospital before ultimately being discharged. Upon review, Kingman EMS Director Zachary Bieghler determined that the CPR performed by law enforcement was a significant factor in saving the patient.

The Kingman County Sheriff's Office wishes to congratulate and recognize Deputy Purcell, Officer Goble and Communication Officer Knudsen for their great work and thank Kingman EMS for their support and continued partnership in serving our community.

Meanderings

Fellow meandering readers, this week's newspaper edition will give you one of those odd déjà vu feelings.

I started last week's paper on the weekend (April 2nd). I had a lot going on during the week, so thought I'd get a good start on our little missive. BUT I also had kitty health issues, which I was pretty sure weren't going to end well for us. Even with constantly worrying about and checking on my ZsaZsa and trying to get her to eat, I managed to finish the paper early. I was done with it by 7 p.m. last Tuesday evening. The earliest I've EVER had it done.

Unfortunately, I probably should have done a better job proofreading instead of gloating over my early finish. There were several mistakes in the paper. After I was told about two of them, I went back through and found a couple more. AARGH!! The two that others caught are fixed in this week's edition. The others weren't worth the ink and time. They are what they are. So there are some repeats--corrected, that is, and I do believe the information IS correct this week.

And my beautiful kitty passed away Monday morning. ZsaZsa was my most constant reading buddy at night. I'd go to bed, pick up my book, and she'd come and lay on my right shoulder and purr. When her purr would stop, I'd reach up and scratch her forehead and set it off again. When I'd reach to turn off the light, she'd get up and sleep elsewhere. The bottom of the bed or in her favorite kitty bed. In the morning, she'd be there laying across my hip waiting for me to wake up. Purring. She was a truly wonderful companion for a bit over 13 years. I do so miss her.

I have been reading a cornucopia of interesting books. Last week I was reading "Nothing Daunted: The Unexpected Education of Two Society Girls in the West" by Dorothy Wickenden. This is a nonfiction read. A very interesting nonfiction read.

Dorothy Woodruff and Rosamond Underwood grew up together in wellto-do families in Auburn Hills, New York. They attended Smith College, and not wanting to get married, they spent a year traveling 'the continent'. They returned to the States and soon found themselves jobs as teachers in Colorado. Now keep in mind these two young women, in their mid-twenties, had never held a paying job in their entire lives, they had never even worked with children. They had no teaching certificates. They didn't know how to cook or sew. And they were expected to teach domestic science.

'Ros' taught the older students and "Dotty" taught the elementary students. They put in long days teaching and studying to take the twelve exams to get a teacher certificate. The exams were given over two days. These are the subject areas they were tested over: arithmetic, reading, penmanship, physiology, orthography, history, school law, grammar, and natural science. "Describe the changes that take place in 'egg on toast' during the process of digestion." YIKES!!! "Explain methods of bidding on and letting road work by contract." (SERIOUSLY??? For a teacher!?) "Give a physiological reason for not boxing children's ears." ( I can think of physiological reasons FOR boxing ears.)

I am sure teachers reading this are thinking they would be hard pressed to complete these exams. If it were me, I'd have given up teaching before I started. Both girls though passed their exams: Dorothy's average was 90 <sup>5</sup>/<sub>12</sub> and Rosamond's score was  $90^{-5}/_{6}$ . Dorothy wrote home about their scores--"I think Mrs. Peck (the Colorado county schools' superintendent) must have been perjuring her soul, to give them to us."

It is a fun and fascinating read. I have learned a lot about the railroad and road building through the mountains. I read about interesting people in American history. I've learned about Colorado history. It is reading for anyone. So interesting!

Note to my friends Vicki, Mary Ann, and Terry... the sandplum bushes are in bloom... as seen on the masthead. I can't wait for this summer!

Tallgrass and Tumbleweeds by Gaille Pike

Dear Readers,

Four hundred fortyeight out of US-50's 3,019 miles meander across Kansas. Because it twists and turns, the KS portion of this major coast to coast route when viewed on a map looks like it's been drawn with a leaky pen. Not every mile runs straight East -West, but I can attest that five of them in Coffey County do because that's my favorite way to get to Lebo, the town nearest the farm. However, this time of year, if fate finds me driving this stretch at dawn or dusk, I always think I am in the wrong place at the wrong time, simply because US-50 and the sun are in such blazingly perfect alignment. It is not always "fate." Occasionally it's poor timing on my part. Sometimes a chain of events result in my travelling those miles at the very moment the sun is rising or setting. All the above can find me driving those miles a few minutes earlier or later and instead of experiencing near blindness, I behold an extraordinary sunrise or sunset. I cannot explain or take credit for such moments. I find there is no need to be anything but THANKFUL when fortune fills my windshield.

This is doubly true when serendipity touches my heart the way it did just this past week. I expected to have a good time at a friend's family party. My friend had been modest when she'd told me, "there'll be good food." This was no ordinary meal. It was a a FEAST of flavors that would take me six columns to describe. And the love and laughter broke out contagiously, often. But the sense that I, that we, were all in the right place at the right time hit me as I listened to the stories told by the Yee and Sin Yang family. I was struck as Yee Yang talked about his friend, Larry Woodson from Kingman, KS and the role this life-long friend played in the event we were celebrating, the family's Coming to America 47 years ago.

I never had the honor of meeting Mr. Woodson. And I have only known one other man born in Kingman—my father. They were born 15 years apart, and I have no reason to think they were acquainted. But there was something inexplicable about it all. Both Mr. Woodson and my father lived their belief in service to others and always sought to contribute to their communities. They were proud to be Americans. And they had a hand in all our being Americans and being together now, by chance, 47 years later. We shared a toast. And we marveled at the ways we proudly walk in their footsteps whether we walk East or West. Or North or South. I'd like to think that's true for all Americans, though sometimes I know we are blinded by our differences. What matters to me right now is that there is no need for me to be anything but THANKFUL.

Until next week-keep your eyes on the stars and your back to the wind.

The Final Countdown

Kim Baldwin, McPherson County farmer and rancher

Spring has sprung on our central Kansas farm. The daffodils and apricot trees are in full bloom and being visited by the honeybees. The small flock of sheep we've been caring for all winter have now more than doubled as all of the ewes have lambed. Now the pasture is full of little white lambs frolicking and bouncing all around as their mothers keep watch. Our machine shop has also transitioned from housing a winter basketball court to housing a planter being prepped and bags of corn seed stacked high as we await our season of spring planting.

Like any spring, the Kansas weather has fluctuated from cold to warm and from cold to hot. I've experienced many recent days where I've had my son change out of the athletic shorts he planned to wear to school and instead have made him get some pants on. There's also been days where I've told the kids to leave their coats at home only to regret that decision when the temperatures drop a bit too much by the time they get off the afternoon bus.

It's definitely the time of the year where major fluctuations in weather still occur. It's also the time of the year where some serious countdowns have begun.

While state assessments are about to begin for my children, school will actually wrap up and the kids will be on summer break in less than 30 days. We've made it past the holiday celebrations, the winter concerts, the days of indoor recesses, and the mornings of waiting for the school bus in the dark. Daylight is noticeably getting longer, talk of the end-of-year field day has begun and summer camp forms are being sent home. I can assure you, the kids have already started their final countdown.

With that final countdown to summer break, there is also an elevated level of anticipation as we get closer and closer to the return of my son's cattle from their winter pastures. They will be worked in the coming days and then brought home to pasture over the summer months in the pastures nearest our house. I can't wait to see the cows grazing nearby while I look out my front windows. While we prepare the fencing and the water sources, we know the clock continues to tick for the herd's arrival home for the summer.

The countdown carries over as we also prepare to get the machines in the fields to begin spring planting. While we've been making final adjustments to the planter, we've also been anxiously awaiting a good spring rain before planting the seeds into the ground. While it seems we aren't in as big of a hurry as previous years to start planting, mostly due to the dry conditions, the countdown has clearly begun and we wait and watch to determine when we will give ourselves the greenlight to begin.

Yes, spring has definitely sprung! And with it, all of the final countdowns have also begun.

"What Were You Wearing"

The month of April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month. One of our campaigns we are doing to get more community awareness is the exhibit called "What Were You Wearing". It has become a social norm to ask survivors what they were wearing at the time of the assault. This exhibit is to show the community that it doesn't matter what you are wearing, sexual assault still happens. The "What Were You Wearing" exhibit will be displayed in the Pratt Community College Art Gallery from April 4th-April 27th.

The CHS KAY club would like to invite all women and girls of the community to the Mother/Daughter Banquet.

> Please bring a covered dish to share and your table service. Drinks will be provided.

Due to construction at the gym, this year's banquet will be held at the Sacred Heart Hall in Cunningham.

April 13—The Easter Cantata, "Easter Praise," was presented at the Easter Sunday evening services at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The choir members who assisted in the presentation included Mrs. Frank Allbritten, and Misses Elsie Crow and Pauline Stanley, sopranos; Mrs. Charles Fee, Mrs. Waune DeLair, Mrs. John Groom, and Misses Carrie Poland and Ethelyn Franks, altos; Rev. John Groom and Mr. Alva Poland, tenors; and Mr. John Wymer and Mr. Avery Maxedon, bases. The musical treat was directed by Miss Artaruth Neill, Cunningham High School music teacher.

The orchard on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grier and family near Cairo has apparently escaped serious damage from last week's storm, according to word from Mr. Grier. The Grier orchard is the largest orchard west of Wichita, and contains three hundred and sixty apples trees and over one hundred peach and apricot trees.

Mr. Ray Amick was elected Director of the Board of Education of Cunningham High School by one vote over Mr. Carde Cannon at the annual school board meeting last Friday afternoon. One hundred and forty-one patrons of the school district attended the meeting.

1933

April 14 – The operetta, "The Magic Piper," was presented by the Cunningham Grade School last Friday evening to a packed house in the High School Auditorium. The cast of characters included Betty Carter, Donald Huhman, Evelyn DeLair, Betty Mae Anderson, Alden Halderman, Oliver Baber, Philip Fee, Lawrence Ebenkamp, Gwendolyn Price, Joan Anderson, James Nossaman, Dewey Cooley, John Raymond Fee, Charles Lakin, Charles Crow, and Joanna Franks. The operetta was directed by Miss Una Morine, with the assistance of the other school teachers, Principal Harve Manahan, Miss Cozette Taylor, and Miss Helen McClure. Miss Pauline Allbritten played the musical accompaniment at the piano, and Dr. Donald Thompson assisted very materially with some off-stage music, doubling on the flute and clarinet.

Mr. J. J. Amick suffered a dislocated shoulder Tuesday morning when the team of horses he was raking hay with, got scared and ran away. Mr. Amick was thrown from the hay rake to the ground.

The Young People's Society of St. Leo's Church presented their annual springtime play, "Poor-House Paupers," at the St. Leo School Auditorium last Monday evening. Members of the cast were Albert Dick, Clarence Steffan, Brownie Fiegel, Mike Schnittker, and Evelyn Spade.

1938

April 15–A severe snow storm, reaching blizzard proportions struck this section of the country last week-end paralyzing highway and railroad traffic. The intensity of the storm was felt more because it followed a period of mild spring weather. Damage to fruit trees and growing crops cannot be ascertained at this time.

Emily Groves was elected May Queen, and Paul DeWeese was chosen May Chancellor by the Cunningham High School student body this week to reign at the school's May Fete. Students also voted to make the school colors of red and white, and the nickname of Wildcatters with the insignia of an oil derrick official to the school.

1943

April 16— Preliminary work was stared the first of this week on the construction of a helium plant one mile west of Cunningham. The plant will be operated by the United States Bureau of Mines for the United States Navy. Mr. Robert Burbridge, Superintendent of the Fluor Construction Company of Los Angeles, Calif., which has the helium plant construction contract, arrived in town this week and established an employment office. Mr. Burbridge states that fifty houses would be built on the plant site, and construction of the plant would take about ten months. He said about five hundred men will b required to erect the plant, and fifty men will be required for plant operation.

Mr. George Simonson, 86, pioneer resident of this community, passed away Wednesday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Vance Baker, in Cunningham. Mr. Simonson was the "village blacksmith" in Cunningham, coming here from Olcott to establish his shop in this city in 1889. Mr. Simonson was of an inventive mind and nature, and sold a patent to the John Deere Implement Company for a hand lever which raised and lowered the farm harrow for the sum of $200.00. He also invented the oscillating washing machine, but never took out a patent on the invention.

A tornado of small proportion visited the Cunningham community Sunday afternoon but did only minor damage at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs.

Edwin Krug and family, nine miles southeast of town. The menacing storm clouds that afternoon, watched by hundreds of folks, were awe-inspiring, and at the same time appalling, and brought back vivid recollection to everyone of the disasterous tornado that struck the community May 1, 1938, when six persons lost their lives as a result of the storm.

1948

April 16— At their next regular meeting night on May 3rd, the City Council will sign a contract with the Western Light and Telephone Co., Inc., for installation of a new white-way lighting system for Cunningham.

The new lighting system will be set up along three blocks of the city on U. S. highway 54 and for one block north on Main Street.

The lights will be of the modern trend in streetlighting, whereby one light cuts the arc of another, eliminating all glare at ground level...

Delivery of the lighting material cannot be made for 30 weeks.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cain Jr. on the arrival of a son, James Warren, at the Donley-Mitchell hospital in Kingman, Friday morning, April 9th. The boy weighed nine pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dafforn are re-modeling their newly-purchased residence (the former John Sterneker Sr. home): Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Millhouse are modernizing their house, and Mr. Carl Poland is adding a room to his property now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Greenlee and Greg. The Rochelle Nursing Home moved into the Myrtle Burgett property in the northeast past of town last week.

Revival services will continue for another week at the First Baptist Church in Cunningham.

The Cunningham High School baseball team won two games and lost one during the past week's activity.

1958

April 17 – Approximately 400 people gathered at the High School Gym-Auditorium, Sunday afternoon, to enjoy a "This Is Your Life" program sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship, to honor an outstanding citizen of the Cunningham community. The program was patterned after the television show of the same name.

Master of Ceremonies Kenton Shelman greeted the large audience as he opened the program with timely remarks. Going down into the audience to seek the honored guest, he greeted his father, Waldo Shelman, and then E. C. Dafforn, before finding Dr. Ferd Burnett, a practicing physician for over 50 years and a resident of this community for 32 years, and greeted him with the statement, "This Is Your Life, Dr. Burnett."

Two ushers, Mary Leiter and Jerry Hazlett, escorted Dr. Burnett to the flower-banked stage, and after he was comfprtably seated, there began the passing parade of relatives and friends, as a panorama of the doctor's life was unveiled, and events presented in chronological order from his birth in Dixon, Mo., September 19, 1879, to the present time.

Sunday services were brought to us by the Turon Bible Baptist Church. Those attending were: Rev. and Mrs. Ira Ramsey and children, Etta Mae Frampton and Gene, Lois and Lori Stout. The children sang "Jesus Loves Me."

Thursday we saw our movies "Grandie's Quilt" and "The Raccoon Who Thought He was a Hound."

Seventh and eighth grade and high school students heard in an assembly a presentation by three young Indian men of the objectives of the "Longest Walk", which passed through Cunningham on Wednesday morning, April 12.

These young men handed out information on bills pending in Congress that would be detrimental to Indians. They pointed out that there were over 200 walkers, representing the 75 Indian tribes as well as those of Japanese, black and white extraction. The walkers planned to spend Wednesday evening at the Fair Grounds in Kingman.

They started February from San Francisco, Calif., and are traveling on foot to Washington, D.C. to bring to the attention of the federal government their disapproval of legislation to terminate treaties made with the Indian people.

Ernie Peters, a native American Indian, marching with the Longest Walk, introduced himself at Pratt Community College. He told students who were made up of several social science classes that the Indian believed in sharing their land but they never expected that it would all be taken away. "We have only 54 million acres of land left to us,' Peters said. "And 85 percent of that land is covered in pollution."

"All we ask is that the government honor our treaties, leave us alone and let us have our natural land base," Peters said.

The Cairo EHS met April 4 at 2 p.m. n the home of Alda Hodgkinson with 13 members present. Roll was answered to "what causes me stress."

It was announced that Carrie Fitzsimmons will make the May place cards for Hilltop Manor. A desitrict EHU meeting will be held May 5th in Pratt. Members were also reminded of the Belle Plaine and Wichita tour on April 27.

1983

April 14- "Up Where We Belong" was the theme for the Junior/Senior banquet and prom held Saturday, April 9, in the Cunningham High School gymnasium. The theme was carried out with the colors of dark purple and lavender silver starts, a silver staircase and a silver turning columns added the finishing touches.

Emcee for the evening was Lori Jarmer, junior class president. Sherry Simon, junior class vice president, gave the welcoming speech, followed by an acceptance speech by Lisa Spade, senior class president. Invocation was given by Father Jim Spexarth of the St. Leo Catholic Church.

The meal consisted of chicken and roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, corn, hot rolls, butter, relishes, cherry cheesecake, iced tea and coffee. It was catered by Ken Theis of Turon. The meal was served by sophomores who had been selected by the junior class. The servers were Gail Fischer, Eddie Albers, Kam Smith, Janie Cornelius, Robbie Sterneker and Janene Werner.

Eight years ago Sherry Welch came to Cunningham Grade School to begin her first teaching job.

Today she's still here and loving every minute she spends with her seventh and eighth graders.

Sherry graduated in 1975 from Sterling College, where she majored in elementary education. Her student teaching was done in Cunningham.

"The kids," are what Sherry notes as the most pleasurable part of her job. But expounding on the subject a little more, she explains that helping them develop different strategies, preparing their thinking for the future and making adjustments at that level are things she specifically enjoys.

"I believe in child-centered teaching," Sherry said. This is instructing the students on their level and using a mixture of methods, so each child has the opportunity to pick up material the way they perceive it on an individual basis.

Sherry explained that students in the seventh and eighth grades are most interested "in themselves and each other." Scholastically she is involved in teaching them language areas and science. And in other areas she is helping them deal with outside pressures, such as trying to become adults.

"This is a very difficult stage they're going through," Sherry said. She noted students at the level are fighting peer pressure, "fitting in" and "trying to be cool".

"You have to really like and understand them. I think I do and I enjoy helping them."

Sherry said during the first few years of her teaching she found dealing with students this age most difficult. But she then came to the realization that a teacher has to just accept them as they. "I have two grown daughters (age 19 and 21) and that helped me reach an understanding, Welch stated.

Sherry said the greatest reward a teacher can get from her students is when even one comes back after becoming an adult and says "thanks".

"Just that one kid makes it all worthwhile."

Play Ball!

Why do childhood memories burn so much brighter than adulthood memories?

In the 1988 movie Stealing Home, Mark Harmon plays Billy Wyatt, a former baseball player who must return home to deal with the death of Katie Chandler, a special woman from his past, played by Jodi Foster. Billy and Katie had gone their separate ways when Billy was 18 and hadn't seen each other in the ensuing 20 years before Katie's death.

Much of the movie consists of Billy's childhood flashbacks that provide the perspective needed to understand why present day events are so poignant - and why Katie played such an important role in his life.

In one scene after the flashbacks, the now 38-year-old Billy picks up his high school friend Allan (played by Harold Ramis) and the two get drunk while discussing Katie's demise. Before you know it, the two are rummaging through their parents' house for baseball equipment, climbing into their high school uniforms and breaking into a stadium to once again play ball together.

Such is the pull of childhood memories.

In the summer of my 38th year, I found myself visiting the town where I grew up. The official reason was the 20 year high school reunion. The REAL reason was the pull of those childhood memories.

For the first two days of the week-long visit, I drove alone to memorable place after memorable place. The memories rushed in such floods that I had to stop the car and quietly let them replenish themselves. Amazing how a place can instantly open mental file drawers long sealed and forgotten. After two days of refamiliarizing with places and memories, I was ready to do the same with old friends.

First on the list - Dobbs.

I met Dave in the third grade and we practically lived together until my family moved from the area when I was 17. Name a sport and we played it. Baseball, tennis, and golf in the summer, football in the fall, basketball, hockey, and ping-pong in the winter and any or all of them in the spring.

Now adults, neither of us were very active.

I picked him up downtown and we decided to drive to "the pit," the place were we'd played so many of those games. Short on sports equipment, we found ourselves at his parents house - the one he grew up in - just a block away. Next thing you know, we're in the basement - the same one I'd spent so many hours in as a child - rummaging for sports equipment.

Today I can close my eyes and see it as clearly as then. Dobbs and I walking to the pit, glove thrust over the knob on baseball bat balanced on my shoulder, Dobbs continually tossing a ball into his mitt. Walking the same path we'd walked hundreds of times 20 years earlier. And then a magical hour of slapping fly balls to each other in our childhood field of dreams. The entire time grinning ear to ear from creating my own scene right out of "Stealing Home."

As I look back on that week, that time with Dobbs burns the brightest of all other memories. Sure, it piggybacked on the hundreds of childhood memories that had come before. And it tied in nicely to that movie I love. But what made it so special was its simplicity. It didn't cost any money, lives weren't depending on our results, there were no hidden agendas, no pressure to perform. For that magical hour, we were absolutely free from the demands of adulthood and had given ourselves permission to play.

Freedom. Fun. Friendship. Those were the emotional states that burned our childhood events so brightly into memories. So it's not really those memories we seek to relive today, what we really want is those emotional states. And emotional states can be accessed from only one place - inside our own Guess who has the ability to learn how to create those?

Missing Armor

By Jack Taylor

The crumpled avalanche of rainbow-colored teen-wear flowed from the closet like lava surging from an active volcano. Rhonda bit her lip, pivoted, and shut the door behind her. Her daughter's first date had turned a normally organized young woman into a frenzied mass of molten chaos. The emotional turmoil transformed a brilliant Dr. Jekyll into a hideous Ms. Hyde.

"Where is my blue dress?" Stephanie hollered. "I need to wear it tonight."

"It was in your closet last Sunday," Rhonda replied, halfway down the hallway. She straightened a picture frame boasting her three daughters at various ages and stages of life. Stephanie, the youngest, Elizabeth, the oldest, and Sherry, the one in between.

"Nothing's in my closet anymore," the teen continued. "Did you wash it?"

Leaning against the wall by the bathroom, she took a deep breath. "I think that dress has to be dry-cleaned. Did you put it in the wash?"

"Mom! I don't have time for this. Jamey will be here in half an hour and I still need to shower. Can you look in the laundry basket?"

Rhonda stepped back toward her daughter's closed door. "Where is he taking you?"

Silence.

"Honey, where are you two going today?"

"Mom, I need to find that dress. He said something about skating and a movie or ice cream and a Bible study. Did you look in the laundry yet?"

The knob turned easily but she refrained from pushing the door open. "There's a big difference between skating and a movie and ice cream and a Bible study," Rhonda said. "Maybe you could find something to wear besides the blue dress."

"No! Jamey saw me wearing it at church and told me how much he liked it. I have to find it. Did you look in the laundry yet?"

Rhonda slipped away and sauntered into the laundry room. The wicker basket held a pair of her socks and under-garments but nothing else. Only a year ago, before the fatal crash, it had overflowed with her husband's jeans, running gear and her other daughter's clothing. If only she hadn't insisted that he pick up that necklace for Valentine's Day on his way home from skiing with the girls. The police report said that the dump truck's brakes had failed at the stop sign and that her husband and girls had died instantly. She shuddered and gazed out the

"Mom, did you find it?"

Stephanie was standing half-dressed behind her. "Mom, Elizabeth gave me that dress for my birthday last year. I need to find it."

"Didn't Elizabeth get that dress for Christmas?" Rhonda asked.

"Yes! But she gave it to me," Stephanie said. "It's the only thing of hers I still have. I need it."

"Maybe, check her closet," Rhonda said. "Sometimes I forget which dress belongs to whom."

Stephanie faded away. Rhonda was still gazing out the window when the doorbell rang. It rang again.

"Mom, can you get that?" Stephanie yelled.

Jamey sported ripped jeans, a faded Bruins T-shirt and a Red Sox cap. His broad shoulders and clear blue eyes gave off an air of selfconfidence. "Morning," he said. "I'm here to take your daughter out."

Ronda opened the door wider and stepped aside. "She said you'd be by. Where are you planning to go with her?"

The newcomer stepped inside and scanned the room. "Thought I'd ask her where she wants to go," Jamey said. "Skateboarding at the park, feeding the ducks, Bible study, Ice cream, movie, cruising. We've got all day."

She thought you wanted her to wear her blue dress," Rhonda said.

"I guess that strikes out skateboarding," Jamey said. "How's she doing without her sisters around?"

There were no words. She'd forgotten to wear her emotional armor. Silence imprisoned her tongue.

"Sorry, ma'am," he

Stephanie emerged in her own version of jeans and a hoodie.

"What happened to the blue dress?" Rhonda asked.

"I looked out the window and saw what Jamey was wearing," Stephanie said. "Didn't look like the blue dress would match his style. I'll save it for another day."

"Wear what you wear wherever you are," Jamey said. "Don't worry, I'll take solid care of your daughter. She told me you'd want to hear from us every hour and I'm good with that. Remember, you're never really alone."

Rhonda shut the door and headed for the avalanche. Every piece of clothing held a memory and she relived every one as she returned things to their hangers.

Registration Deadline for Boys State of Kansas 2023 Session Approaches

The registration deadline for the 2023 session of the American Legion Boys State of Kansas, which will be held Sunday, June 4, through Saturday, June 10, at Kansas State University in Manhattan, is set for Sunday, April 30. This will be the program's 31st consecutive session at KSU and 85th overall.

Traditionally, Kansas Boys State is for individuals who will complete their junior year of high school in the spring just prior to the start of each session. However, the ALBSK program has again expand the pool of registrants for this year's session to include those who will complete their sophomore year of high school this spring.

The American Legion Boys State of Kansas program provides a relevant, interactive, problem-solving experience in leadership and teamwork that develops selfidentity, promotes mutual respect and instills civic responsibility to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to community, state and nation. Boys State is a "learning by doing" political exercise that simulates elections, political parties and government at the state, county and local levels, providing opportunities to lead under pressure, showcasing character and working effectively within a team. It's also an opportunity to gain pride and respect for government, and the price paid by members of the military to preserve democracy.

The cost to attend the Boys State of Kansas program is $350; however, in many instances, sponsors pay the majority of the fees, with the delegate or his family paying $50. Those wishing to attend the program should visit ksbstate.org to register. While the deadline to register to guarantee a spot in the 2023 program is April 30; registrations are accepted after that date on a spaceavailable basis.

Potential sponsors, such as American Legion posts, civic organizations, businesses, clubs and interested individuals should visit ksbstate. org/sponsor-a-delegate. Questions? Contact the ALBSK at info@ ksbstate.org or (785) 550-6492.

The American Legion Boys State of Kansas is an interactive simulation that teaches high school seniors-to-be the value of democracy and civic duty. Participants form mock governments and campaign for positions at the city, county and state levels. After the elections, participants find out firsthand the difficult decisions made daily by those in government through a series of challenging simulations. Delegates, nominated to attend by their high school counselors and other influential people in their lives, are sponsored by American Legion posts and various civic organizations from across the state. All delegates demonstrate outstanding leadership qualities in student government, athletics and/or other activities.

The Boys State program was founded by Legionnaires Hayes Kennedy and Harold Card in Illinois in 1935, and was first held in Kansas two years later in Wichita. The Kansas program moved to the University of Kansas in Lawrence in 1963 and remained there until 1991. The following year, it moved to its current location at Kansas State University in Manhattan. For more information about the American Legion Boys State of Kansas, visit ksbstate.org.

Do you know what the word 'extinct' means? When we say an animal is extinct, we mean that there are none left!

Animals and plants have disappeared through natural causes such as storms, volcanic eruptions or diseases. Some animals have been wiped out because people were hungry and killed them for food before they had a chance to replace their populations.

Animals may be threatened by loss of their homes or by sprays used to kill pesky insects. Some are hunted for their furs or horns.

When numbers of these animals drop so low that they may become extinct, we call them 'endangered' and may work to protect them.

Fill in the puzzle with some animals that are at risk:

- 1. Arctic; melting ice threatens their habitat
- 2. hunted for furs and food; found only in Vietnam; looks like an antelope, in same family as the cow
- 3. Florida; swampy homes drained; hunted for skins, food 4. few small groups left in mountainous bamboo forests of China
- 5. large gentle animals in African jungles; not enough room
- for gathering food, raising families; killed for body parts
- 6. followed by fishermen seeking tuna; drown in nets; now companies support ways to fish that do not kill needlessly
- 7. Africa, Asia; poachers kill them for their horns
- 8. beautiful cat of India, Russia; killed for skin or fur
- 9. ocean animal; largest animal in world; hunted
- 10. giant lizard; very few left

When animals are "extinct" it means that there are no more of them. The dinosaurs are probably the best known of the extinct animals. Can you find and circle the names of some extinct animals listed below?

The dodo bird was a flightless bird and is extinct. People only know about it from a few sketches, writings, and some bones.

I run faster than any animal in the world. People hunt us for our beautiful fur. Our numbers have dropped.

Who Am I?

What Could It Be?

For years concern has cropped up for this winged animal. Reporters have been talking about "colony collapse disorder." Swarms of these little, flying creatures had been disappearing and now their numbers seem to be leveling off, but still no one knows why.

We need this animal to pollinate fruits, vegetables and flowers. They provide honey too. Our food supply might be in trouble if too many of these disappear!

Use this color key to fill in the puzzle to see what it could be!

Social Security Honors Our Military Heroes

On Memorial Day, our nation honors military service members who have given their lives for our country. Families, friends, and communities pause to remember the many great sacrifices of our military and ensure their legacy lives on in the freedoms we all enjoy. We recognize these heroes who, in President Lincoln's words, "gave the last full measure of devotion."

The benefits we provide can help the families of deceased military service members. For example, surviving spouses and their dependent children may be eligible for Social Security survivors benefits. You can learn more about those benefits at www.ssa.gov/survivors.

We also offer support to our wounded warriors. Social Security benefits protect veterans when an injury prevents them from returning to active duty or performing other work. Wounded military service members can receive expedited processing of their Social Security disability claims. Are you a veteran with a 100% Permanent & Total compensation rating from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs? We will expedite your disability claim. Both the Department of Veteran Affairs and the Social Security Administration have disability programs. You may qualify for disability benefits under one program but not the other, or you may qualify for both. Depending on your situation, some of your ing your dependent children or spouse, may be eligible to receive Social Security benefits.

Want more information? Visit www.ssa. gov/people/veterans for answers to commonly asked questions or to find information about the application process.

Thinking about retirement? Military service members can receive Social Security benefits in addition to their military retirement benefits. For details, visit our webpage, You Can Get Both Military Retirement and Social Security Benefits, at www.ssa.gov/planners/retire/veterans.html.

Please share this information with the military families in your community. To the veterans who bravely served and died for our country, and to the military service members who serve today, we honor and thank you.

Governor Signs Bill Naming Official State Land Fossil

TOPEKA-Governor Laura Kelly today signed Senate Bill 3, a bipartisan bill that designates the Silvisaurus Condrayi as the official state land fossil. The Silvisaurus is the only known dinosaur from the Dakota Formation in Kansas. It was a medium-sized, four-legged, armored plant-eater, and its remains were discovered by a rancher in Ottawa County in 1955.

"Designating this state fossil helps educators further demonstrate Kansas' relevance to eras long before the founding of the United States,"

Wheat Scoop: Kansas Wheat Encourages Producers to Express Support for Ag Export Programs

While every Kansas producer's eyes are understandably fixed on the sky and the weather forecast, groups like Kansas Wheat are closely monitoring national Farm Bill negotiations for longerterm impacts on their operations.

Some of these programs — like crop insurance and disaster relief — help safeguard operations in times of need. Others, like the Market Access Program (MAP) and Foreign Market Development (FMD) program, help ensure farmers continue to have access to market opportunities at home and abroad.

"Half of the wheat grown in the United States is exported, so our producers understand the importance of trade and market development," said Shayna DeGroot, Kansas Wheat director of membership and government affairs. "These successful economic development programs have a significant impact on the farm and the general U.S. economy."

The MAP and FMD program are part of a public-private partnership authorized in the Farm Bill that provides competitive grants for export development and promotion activities to non-profit farm and ranch organizations that contribute funds from checkoff programs and industry support.

U.S. Wheat Associates (USW), which represents U.S. wheat farmers in overseas markets, is a participant in the MAP and FMD programs. Private funding for USW's export market development activities comes from 19 state wheat commissions, including Kansas Wheat, and qualifies USW to compete for program funds.

These programs have a direct impact on exports, the farm economy and the overall macro economy, but these programs need more investment to strengthen their effectiveness.

"MAP's authorized funding has not changed since 2006 and FMD funding has remained the same since 2002, so inflation and sequestration have significantly eroded the ability to compete with other countries who are steadily investing more in their agricultural export promotion efforts," wrote USW and the National Association of Wheat Growers in a joint press release.

Recognizing the importance of these programs, lawmakers introduced bipartisan and bicameral legislation in both the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives to double the funding for this pair of agricultural export market development programs administered by the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS).

The Expanding Agricultural Exports Act (S. 176) was originally introduced by Senators Angus King (ME), Tina Smith (MN), Joni Ernst (IA), Chuck Grassley (IA) and Susan Collins (ME). The Agriculture Export Promotion Act (H.R. 648) was originally introduced by Representatives Dan Newhouse (WA), Jim Costa (CA), Tracey Mann (KS), Kim Schrier (WA), Ashley Hinson (IA), Jimmy Panetta (CA), Brad Finstad (MN) and Chellie Pingree (ME).

A recent econometric study conducted by agricultural economists at IHS Market and Texas A&M University predicted that doubling funding for these programs would generate an additional $44.4 billion in U.S. agricultural exports over the 2024 to 2029 time period. This would directly benefit farmers, livestock producers, dairy operators and small businesses as they work to maintain and expand their global presence. Learn more about these impacts at www. Ag Exports Count.

Both bills must now be considered by the Senate Agriculture Committee and the House Agriculture Committee. Wheat growers can help encourage support for this effort by letting their Members of Congress know how vital these marker bills — and their result of increasing agricultural exports — are to the farm economy.

Wheat growers can participate in the campaign on the NAWG website at https://wheat-world.org/supporttrade-programs-in-the-2023-farm-bill/. Fill out your information and click submit; a letter will automatically be sent to your two senators and representative.

Loretta Looney

Loretta May Looney, 90, passed away quietly and peacefully, at her home, on Monday, April 10, 2023.

She was born on March 25, 1933 in rural Stafford County on Jeff and Blanche Dark's farm, who were her grandparent's. She was born on her grandfather's 50th birthday.

Loretta's parents were Woodrow Wilson Holmes and Elizabeth May (Dark) Holmes. Loretta was one of seven children.

She graduated from St. John High School in 1951. Loretta met Harvey Looney at a roller-skating rink in St. John, Kansas and their first date was on June 4th of 1950. They later married on August 12, 1950 at the ages of Harvey, 25 and Loretta, 17. Throughout their marriage they continued their love of roller skating. They were married for 29 years and through out those years, Loretta helped Harvey by performing odd end jobs to help support their family until Harvey's passing on February 12th of 1979. Loretta then worked for the City of Pratt until her retirement.

Loretta had another love which was music. She taught herself how to play the piano at the age of 5 or 6 by playing by ear. The very first song she learned how to play on the piano was "Jesus Loves Me". She also learned how to play the accordion. Loretta could listen, hear the notes played, and start in singing harmony. She loved to sing. Loretta came from a musical family that taught themselves how to play different instruments and sing. Later on, Loretta, also belonged to a small singing group the Joyful Singers.

Loretta told her family of many fishing trips that she and Harvey went on. She never fished but cooked the fish so Harvey and the family could enjoy their rewards.

She loved her kitchen and all the food that came from that kitchen could feed several families, to which it did. She was known for her peanut brittle at Christmas time, her home-made cinnamon rolls, and chicken and noodles any time of the year. Loretta once said, "Cooking brings me Joy." and it did.

Loretta's peaceful and quiet moments were when she was outdoors with the fresh air, listening to her songbirds, and seeing her peonies coming into season. She spoke that peonies were her favorite flower.

We will miss Loretta. Her smile and laughter which would fill a room with joy and love. Her quick wit, her love of music, never afraid to start up a song and have everyone join in. Then there was the quiet side of Loretta where you could sit with her and listen to the long-ago stories from another time. She gave us a life with her we will always cherish.

Today, we say our goodbyes knowing that she is singing with the angels in God's glory.

She attended First Southern Baptist Church was a previous member of the Lions Club and volunteer with American Red Cross. She enjoyed music, cooking, spending time with her grandchildren, tending to her yard and gardening, and family dinners.
