Tiny Tots Bring Great Joy

Tiny Tots Daycare visited Cunningham residents, Harry Graves, Gretta Winborne, Donna Glenn and Zona Pogue during Christmas break and delivered some Christmas goodies. The children were out spreading some Christmas joy and got to spend some time with some special residents of Cunningham.

Children are Andi and Clay Young, Jessica Dittmer, Henley Randal, Beckett and Parker Miller and Ady and Evie Wadel.

Editor's note: I was going to do a paper formatted with stories from the past year. It became an overwhelming task to fit all the "breaking" news in one paper. As my mind tried to come up with solutions to every problem I encountered, I became very anxious about it all. I finally decided (just as I was dozing off to sleep in the early hours of Wednesday) I would save myself a great deal of time and grief if I would just re-run my favorite story from 2018. It was a joy to write because this delightful woman has a phenomenal story...it is worth running it again.

Mrs. Eva Van Hooser Chosen Ambassador of International Exploration

This week, Senator Edward Berger visited Hilltop Manor Skilled Nursing by Americare, in Cunningham, with a special purpose. He was there to honor a feisty young lady named Eva Van Hooser. Eva was selected as KHCA/KCAL's 2018 Ambassador of Exploration during the 2018 Marty Hegarty Distinguished Citizen Recognition Program in March. She was recognized during the KHCA luncheon for her lifetime of travels and language learning. On his visit to Hilltop this week, Senator Berger presented Mrs. Van Hooser with a lovely plaque commemorating his visit and her designation of Ambassador.

Mrs. Eva Van Hooser, Hilltop Manor resident, was recently awarded the 2018 Marty Hegarty Lifetime Achievement and Distinguished Citizen Award for Ambassador of International Exploratoiin. A caregiver at Hilltop Manor nominated Mrs. Van Hooser for this recognition, and she was chosen as the recipient of this statewide award. The award honors the senior citizens who reside in nursing communities and who have spent their lives making a difference.

"The program is designed to promote a positive image of the Kansas Elder and the communities in which they live, recognize their personal achievements and elevate the status of Kansas Elders" is the mission stated in the nomination form.

Mrs. Van Hooser was born June 17, 1924, in Oslo, Norway. She was 16 years old when Germany invaded Norway, and Eva's high school was commandeered to be used as Nazi barracks. She was sent to a work camp in Poland when she was 18. She was frequently forced into solitary confinement for sharing her food rations with her fellow inmates and the Jews who were kept in a separate section of the camp.

When she had to have an emergency appendectomy, she was allowed compassionate leave to return to her family in Norway. During her return to the work camp, a sympathetic Swedish citizen convinced her to jump the train before it reached Stockholm. She did jump that train and was able to make her way to a refugee center, where she became an au pair for a dentist and worked in a retirement home as an aide in Vasteras, Sweden.

C.V. Criswell was a member of the 8th Air Force flying B-17s out of England when his plane was shot down on June 21, 1941. He and his crew survived, and he ended up in Vasteras where he met Eva. They were married on March 22, 1947, at the home of her parents in Stabekk, Norway. They eventually moved to Harper County, Oklahoma and lived there until his death 10 years later.

Eva graduated from Sam Houston University in Huntsville, TX, Summa Cum Laude, Class of 1986. She majored in German, with minors in Spanish and French. She was a volunteer in a language lab for 10 years and translated books and letters from Swedish into English. She could speak six languages: Norwegian, Swedish, German, Spanish, French, and English, and use those skills to help others.

Eva was a hospital volunteer for over 20 years at the Huntsville Memorial Hospital in Huntsville, Texas. She was a member of the Zion Lutheran Church and the Sunday School Superintendent in Buffalo, Oklahoma for over 20 years.

Eva met her second husband, E. E. Van Hooser while attending her granddaughter's baptism, and they married on November 25, 1957. They spent a lot of their time camping and traveling the country.

Eva is now a delight to her family at Hilltop Manor. She is admired and loved. The community is proud to have this unique and lovely person living here. We are thankful she made the world a better place by helping others. Thank you, Mrs. Eva Van Hooser, you deserve this distinguished award many times over.

W. A. BRADLEY, EDITOR

January 14, 1949 –

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Theis were notified Saturday evening of the death of their son, Norbert, a corporal in the Army Air Force, in the crash of a United States C-54 transport plane fifteen miles northwest of Blackpool, England.

The crash occurred Friday, when the ship fell in swamp country, near Burtonwood, England, enroute from the Rhein-Main airport to Frankfurt, Germany.

Norbert was a radio operator on the transport, and the crew was engaged in flying the Berlin air-lift when the accident occurred. The plane was due to undergo inspection at the Burtonwood airport. He had been overseas about a year.

The plane had established radio contact with Burtonwood, asking clearance to land. No other word was received from the ship. Six airmen were aboard the ill-fated plane.

William M. Cooley, 85, a resident of this community for 64 years, and one of the county’s most influential citizens, passed away at his home three miles northeast of town at one o’clock Wednesday morning, after being in ill health for several years.

Much could be written of Mr. Cooley’s influence and interest in the life of the community, for he took an active interest in everything which stood for the advancement and promotion of good, serving several years as director of the high school board, and working faithfully in church activities, as well as serving in many capacities in community interests.

Grade School District No. 30 patrons turned down the additional $25,000 bond issue Saturday by a vote of 173 to 118. A $125,000 bond issue had already been approved but bids on the building exceeded the amount of money available. School officials announced Thursday that building plans were undergoing a revision to enable the new grade school to be built for the available $125, 000.

1944–The publication of the Clipper suspended for the duration of the war.

January 12, 1934 – Practice has been started on the next Community Play, which is to be presented by the Cunningham Dramatic Club. The date of the production is Tuesday, January 16th. The players in the cast are: Ray Amick, Mildred Hellar, Roman Young, Annice Cooley, Velda Cannon, Wayne DeLair, Marie Finch, Dorothea Doty, Pete Morton, Martin Pelzl, Rex Shelman, H. Manahan, Felix Pelzl, and Iris Fitzsimmons. The play is a three-act comedy-drama entitled – “The Whole Town’s Broke.”

Hauser's Cash Market: Apples, Fancy Rome Beauty, 5 pounds, 25c Kellogg’s Bran Flakes, 3 boxes, 25c Hershey Cocoa, pound can, 19c Lard, 3 pounds, 25c Macaroni, 3 pounds, 25c Beef Roast, per pound, 9c

The Southern Kansas Stage Lines Bus threwed the Cunningham mail pouch off at the Penalosa corner six miles east of town Wednesday morning, making it necessary for Postmaster Gibbens to drive to Penalosa after the first-class mail sack. While the roads were plenty slick, Henry was able to complete the trip in “jig” with his “chevvie.”

The old 52-pound rails, which have seen duty on the Santa Fe between Kingman and Pratt for many years will be replaced this spring with heavier steel. The new rails will be of 90-pound steel. Work on relaying the track will begin about March 1, according to R. E. Huffman, local Santa Fe agent.

Wildcat Boys’ Varsity takes victory from Thunderbirds

The Wildcat Varsity Boys took a very important 73-62 victory from Skyline T-Birds last Friday night on their home court. The Fine crowd was treated to an exciting night of basketball. This was an important mental victory for us over a fine Skyline ball club. It also put us in good shape in the league race. Anytime you defeat a team like this, it takes a whole team effort, and that is what it was.

Everyone who played and those who didn’t were important. We got the effort from whomever we put on the floor, and that will continue to be a key the rest of the season. We knew that we would have to run Skyline throughout the game if we were going to be effective. We did get Skyline to run and got them in foul trouble easily. This set the tempo and basically the final outcome. We went out and had fun with the running game.

Skyline got in front early as Dauner and Tibbetts combined to make it 6-2. Our defense then settled down and we began running. Wade Ruckle and Joe Strohl were able to play a fine game of man-to-man on Dauner and this was important key in the game.

Scott Huhman hit four of four from the floor in the quarter and Joe Strohl hit for 9 points. The result of the first quarter was 20-16 Wildcat lead.

The second quarter we did an excellent job defensively. We got some fine double teams and individual pressure that (con't page 3)

YEARS AGO IN

The Cunningham Clipper

caused Skyline to make several turnovers that we converted to a 37-26 halftime lead. Scott Huhman led the scoring with 6 in the quarter. Berry Bortz had a fine half with 7 rebounds and 5 points. Wade Ruckle had 3 steals and Scott Huhman 2 to lead the defensive effort.

The second half saw Skyline keep making charges at the Wildcats behind a super effort of Steve Tibbetts. The Wildcats refused to fold, even though Skyline closed to 6 points at times. Our shooting cooled off in the third quarter, but we held an 11point lead at the end of three with 51-40. Joe Strohl matched Tibbett’s effort of 10 pints in the quarter.

The final quarter was another even match in scoring as both teams hit for 22 points and a final score of 73-62. Everyone contributed in the quarter as 5 players scored. We got key rebounds when necessary and some fine passes to open players when Skyline started applying the pressure. Berry Bortz hit some key free throws and a couple of key field goals. Tom Crawford hit two big field goas off the offensive boards and four defensive rebounds. We go fine efforts form everyone in the contest and our practices I feel are the reason. All seem to realize that in order to be effective they must run and run hard to prepare themselves for what it will take.

On the evening we hit 32 of 68 shot attempts for 47 percent, while Skyline hit 27 of 61 for 44 percent. Berry Bortz led with 11 rebounds and Tom Crawford had 9. It was then well balanced after that point. Joe Strohl and Wade Ruckle had 4 steals and Scott Huhman 3. Wade Ruckle had 4 fine assists. We did have 14 offensive rebounds, led by Berry Bortz with 5. W had only 13 turnovers in the game; and that is excellent, considering the pace we set.

Offensively, Joe Strohl led the attack with 29 points on 14 of 27 shots for a fine 52 percent. Scott Huhman hit on 9 of 16 shots for 56 percent and 18 points. Berry Bortz also hit double figures with 11 as he hit 5 key free throws. Wade Ruckle had 8, Tom Crawford 5, Bill Osner 2 and Randy Hageman. Mike Beat gave us a fine effort, thought not scoring. We did not shoot well from the free throw line in this game, as we hit only 9 of 17 attempts.

Meanderings

My mind has not done much meandering this last week. When not working on the newspaper, or doing some chores around the house, I’ve been immersed in the courtroom exploits of Ben Kincaid and Christina McCall. Ben is a bit like Perry Mason, but more nerdy. A great deal more nerdy. I most assuredly will miss these two characters and their employees, Loving, Jones, and Paula, when the last book is read. But my new book friend in Indiana, Fred C, has given me an idea for what to read next. I will go from William Bernhardt to David Morrell (writer of the original Rambo story).

I thought about meandering on New Year’s Resolutions, but I didn’t make any. Maybe I should. Read more books. Pet more kitties. Play with more dogs. Finish my Meanderings column before nine o’clock on Wednesday evenings. Eat more fruit. Eat more vegetables. Eat more cookies.

I would like for folks to continue to send me stories and pictures. Either through e-mail or Facebook or mail or phone. People really do read the newspaper. Facebook is okay, but you really need to be on it 24/7 in order to catch all the news from anyone, and even then, you have to wade through a whole bunch of nonsense to find any real news about events happening in the lives of your friends. With a newspaper, you fetch it from the mailbox, take it home, you sit down and read it, and it can be read in less than half an hour, unless you read every word, then it might take you a bit longer.

In this coming year, I’d really like to have someone write a column for the paper. Or someoneS write columnS for the paper.

I do worry about the demise of the printed paper. The Wichita Eagle is a shadow of what it once was, but the price is a monster of its past. A friend, who has taken the Eagle for an eternity, recently received a renewal notice. The quoted price for one year was $1,043.78. She thought it was scam and called the paper. No. That is what they were charging. She asked me what to do. I told her to drop it. She did. She said when she called to cancel, they didn’t fuss about it.

A week later, she gets a call. They would renew her subscription for $18.29 a month for the next 6 to 8 months. Isn’t that ridiculous?

Well, I think for $40.00 a year, or 77 cents a week, you all get a good bargain. You get pretty good pictures, some news, my meanderings and nonsense, ads from many reputable businesses, (this paper could really use more ads) and a bit of history of our community.

Our Cunningham Courier is mailed out across the country. The United States Postal Service carries it to 24 states. That is a far-reaching paper.

I have some subscribers who haven’t been to Cunningham in many years, but who still want to know what goes on in the town they once lived in. I have a handful of folks who get the paper who have never been to our community, and they seem to enjoy the paper their friend, the editor, puts together, and they like our little town.

I love putting this paper together, and as I decide what goes in and where it would best fit, I think about the subscribers on my list of almost 500, I think about my new subscribers, those I talked to in the last week or so, those I’ve never met, the people in the stories and pictures. And every Thursday, as I put the mailing labels on the papers, I read your names. Every reader can be assured that you are thought of at least once a week by someone in Cunningham. Now that should make you feel appreciated.

I would love to have more subscribers. They are somewhat like an addictive drug. When you get a new reader, you want another, and another. I am always craving more readers. I think our little newspaper serves a distinct purpose and I want to share it with as many as I can. Are you sure you don’t know anyone who needs it for a gift?

I hope those of you who made resolutions have great success in keeping them.

I hope those of you who didn’t make resolutions know you are not alone in your slovenliness. But you might try the one about eating more cookies. That should be an easy resolution to keep.

I hope you all stay with me for another year. Renew your subscriptions, take out an ad or two, tell your friends what a great little paper this is at a very cheap price.

And remember, every week you are thought of by someone in Cunningham, Kansas.

“The aftertaste of New Year’s Eve parties wears on me for the same reason I am not much for resolutions. Dusting off a stepper because we switched out our calendar is pointless. After all, society also conditions that most will whiff their resolutions by January 3rd, at which point one is to abandon the resolutions utterly and feel guilty as one devours a box of Christmas chocolates.”

Happy new year. It’s resolution season, and I know you’ve heard these all before. Stop snacking and slacking. Start reading and running.

But what about resolving to give more life? Now that’s a resolution worth keeping! And it’s as easy as scheduling a blood donation with the American Red Cross.

Below is more information about the

Resolve to give blood with the Red Cross

The American Red Cross encourages people to help meet the urgent need for blood by resolving to give blood this January – National Blood Donor Month.

Donating blood is a way to make a lifesaving impact in the new year for patients like Judy Janssen, who was diagnosed with end-stage autoimmune liver disease in 2016. Janssen received frequent blood transfusions – sometimes multiple times a week – until she underwent a liver transplant last January.

“Blood donors make a really big difference with very little effort,” said Janssen, who received dozens of transfusions before and during her transplant surgery. “I wouldn’t be

Memories of the Holidays of 2018

Here is a photo of the napkins from the holiday meal at Kathy Albers' house. We love our family's sense of humor!!

Bob, Mary, and Brian Stackhouse joined Justin Stackhouse and Isabel Lopez in Wichita Christmas day. They enjoyed a day of food, fun, laughter, a visit from Santa (some assembly required), and an evening drive looking at lights. In true small-town newspaper fashion, "A good time was had by all."

Kansas Profile – Now That’s Rural: Crawford County Fried Chicken

By Ron Wilson, director of the Huck Boyd National Institute for Rural Development at Kansas State University.

Some call it a major rivalry in Kansas. It was even mentioned by ESPNU announcers during a college football broadcast in fall 2018. But this wasn’t K-State versus KU. It was about fried chicken. These announcers were talking about the preferences of one football player who pointed out that there are lots of places to get good fried chicken in southeast Kansas, but people’s restaurant choices can get competitive. Some people like a restaurant called Chicken Annie’s. Other people prefer a restaurant called Chicken Mary’s. Whatever the preference, it all means that there’s great fried chicken in southeast Kansas.

The southeast region of Kansas, and particularly Crawford County, has long been known as a great place for fried chicken. Historic restaurants have helped establish this tradition.

According to the Kansas Guidebook 2 for explorers, written by Marci Penner and WenDee Rowe of the Kansas Sampler Foundation, the tradition goes back to 1933. In that year, a coal miner named Charley Pichler suffered a disabling accident in Yale Mine No. 13 near Pittsburg, Kansas. His wife Annie needed a way to support the family, so she started selling fried chicken dinners out of their home. In addition to mouth-watering fried chicken, she offered German potato salad, German coleslaw, a strip of green pepper, and a slice of tomato.

The response was so positive that it grew into a famous restaurant known as Chicken Annie’s. Annie’s descendants run the restaurant today.

A similar situation led to the creation of another famous restaurant at Pittsburg. When Joe Zerngast was unable to work in the coal mines in the early 1940s, his wife Mary also started marketing meals to support the family. They began serving chicken dinners in their home, moved into an old mining camp pool hall in 1945, and have operated in their current location since 1966. This restaurant became famous as Chicken Mary’s and is also operated by family descendants.

The restaurants are friendly competitors and neighbors, located near each other just north of Pittsburg. Just like a football team, each has loyal fans.

One of those is K-State running back Alex Barnes. He grew up at Pittsburg, came to Kansas State and became the top running back in the Big 12. When ESPNU announcers visited with him before the Oklahoma State game, he let them know his preference of the fried chicken restaurants at his hometown. The announcers said on air, “(Alex) would like to let everyone know that, of all the great fried chicken places in southeast Kansas, Chicken Annie’s is the best.”

This fried chicken rivalry took another turn, in a plot twist reminiscent of Romeo and Juliet. Chicken Mary Pichler’s granddaughter Donna married Chicken Annie’s grandson Anthony. Together, they opened Pichler’s Chicken Annie’s. Wow, make it a combo, please.

The great fried chicken story doesn’t stop there. When the Kansas Sampler Foundation had a contest to select the 8 Wonders of Kansas, one of the entries in the cuisine category was a broad group called Crawford County Fried Chicken, which included both Chicken Mary’s and Chicken Annie’s plus more. The group won! Crawford County Fried Chicken was selected as one of the 8 Wonders of Kansas cuisine.

Not only does Crawford County include Chicken Mary’s and Chicken Annie’s, it also includes other restaurants such as Pichler’s Chicken Annie’s and others. In addition to the original restaurants in Pittsburg, one can get fried chicken in other restaurants in the county. These restaurants include Chicken Annie’s in Girard, Barto’s Idle Hour in Frontenac, and Gebhardt’s Chicken and Dinners in the rural community of Mulberry, population 519 people. Now, that’s rural.

For more information, see the Kansas Guidebook 2 for Explorers and the 8 Wonders of Kansas Guidebook. Those are available in local bookstores or from www.kansassampler.org.

Some call it a major rivalry. It even made it onto an ESPNU sports broadcast. But this rivalry is not about football, it’s about fried chicken. We commend all of the families and owners who are making a difference by continuing these traditions in Crawford County. At dinnertime, regardless of the rivalry, we can now say, “Winner, winner, chicken dinner.”

Kansas Commodity Classic to be held on January 24 in Manhattan

All Kansas farmers are invited to the Kansas Commodity Classic on Thursday, January 24, 2019.

The Kansas Commodity Classic is the annual convention of Kansas’ top crops - corn, wheat, grain sorghum and soybeans, and will take place at the at the K-State Alumni Center, Manhattan, Kan., with registration and breakfast beginning at 7:30 a.m. Thanks to the generous support of the Kansas corn, wheat, grain sorghum and soybean associations and our sponsors, registration is free for farmers and friends.

The Kansas Classic will be emceed by Greg Akagi, farm editor for WIBW. The morning session will open at 8:30 a.m. with welcome remarks. Elected officials have been invited to give updates on the new farm bill and other pertinent issues affecting Kansas farmers.

Also, on the day’s agenda is a weather outlook from Meteorologist Ross Janssen from KWCH in Wichita, and a Farm Bill Panel will include Robin Reid, Extension Associate in Kansas State University’s Department of Agriculture Economics, and Kansas FSA Director David Schemm.

Matt Roberts will end the day with a presentation on “Marketing Through Touch Economic Times.” He is an agricultural economist at The Kern mantle Group, a commodity risk management and education consulting firm in Columbus, Ohio. He frequently speaks on grain, petroleum and biofuels markets, and is also an active consultant to the commodity industry.

Skyland Grain to Build Fuel Storage Tanks

Skyland Grain, LLC is excited to announce the addition of a new state of the art, 3 million gallon fuel storage tank farm. After its completion, it is Skyland’s intent for Southwest Kansas Co-op Service, Inc. to operate the new facility. The tanks will be located just west of Ulysses on the property Skyland Grain bought in July of 2018. This ground was originally being developed as an ethanol facility so rail was installed on site for shipping of product. SWKS Co-op will be able to take advantage of the rail already installed to ship in fuel by train when the market allows. The Skyland board is committed to having a steady fuel supply continuously available for producers. This facility will be a huge step forward for the fuel supply chain in Southwest Kansas. In recent years, the area has seen the closure of 2 out of 3 fuel supply terminals, leaving only the Scott City terminal, which has had numerous outages and pipeline issues over the last three years. This has made it necessary to haul much of the areas fuel from McPherson, KS and Sunray, TX. Hauling

The Kansas Commodity Classic is hosted by the Kansas Corn Growers Association, Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, Kansas Grain Sorghum Producers Association and Kansas Soybean Association. Industry sponsors at the platinum level are Kansas Soybean Commission, Bayer CropScience, Kansas Department of Agriculture, Corteva and Syngenta. Sponsors at the silver level are AgriGold, Ag Risk Solutions, AgroLiquid, Central Valley Ag, Fairbanks Scales & Perten Instruments, Farmers Business Network, K Coe Isom, Midland Genetics & Polansky Seed and Kansas Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education.

Thanks to these generous platinum and silver-level sponsors, the event is free to attend and includes a complimentary breakfast and lunch; however pre-registration is requested for food count purposes.

10 Things You Didn’t Know About Fried Chicken

Editor's note: I found this information on the website for The Daily Meal: All Things Food and Drink. thedailymeal.com

Fried Chicken Was Invented by the Scottish

It was actually the Scottish who were the first to deep-fry chicken in fat (the rest of the world usually baked or boiled it), and they brought the dish with them to America.

Before WWII, It Was a Special Occasion Dish

Up until the early 1900s, fried chicken was a dish that was usually reserved for special occasions and holidays, due to the relative scarcity of spring chickens and the need for such a high volume of fat. The lengthy preparation time also meant that it was rarely, if ever, found on restaurant menus.

Slavery and Segregation were Essential to its Rise in Popularity

Slaves were generally allowed to keep chickens, so frying them up on special occasions during the antebellum years became relatively commonplace. And because many restaurants were closed to blacks due to segregation, fried chicken became a go-to dish due to the fact that it traveled well in an era before refrigeration.

Not all Chickens are Suitable for Frying

Today, just about all of the chickens you’ll find at your supermarket or butcher shop are broilers, which have been bred specifically to be suitable for all types of cooking, including frying. Because older birds are tougher and require long cooking at low temperatures, in the early days only young chickens (cockerels or pullets) were suitable for the high heat and fast cooking time of fried chicken. The fact that these were only available in spring and summer made the dish even more of a luxury item.

There Are Variants Around the World

Fried chicken may be most closely associated with America, but in reality you can find variations around the world. In Korea, it’s fried twice and dunked in a sweet and spicy sauce; in Japan it’s cut into small pieces and fried in a style similar to tempura (and is called karaage); in Thailand it’s given a powerful marinade and served alongside sticky rice; and in Senegal it’s coated in peanut flour.

Nashville-Style Hot Chicken May Be The Unhealthiest of All

Nashville-style fried chicken, which is legendary for being very spicy, is definitely having a moment right now, with even KFC jumping on the bandwagon. But you may want to think twice before indulging: After the chicken comes into the fryer, it’s dunked right into a vat of chile-infused oil, kicking up the calorie

There are Three Primary Frying Methods

When it comes to frying chicken, there are three primary methods: deep-frying, which will fry the chicken evenly and is the easiest method; pressure-frying (or “broasting”), which takes less time than traditional deep-frying and generally results in a juicier bird; and pan-frying in a cast-iron skillet, which is the most old-fashioned technique and is regarded as the best due to ample browning and a higher level of control.

The Pressure Fryer Was the Secret to KFC’s Success

Colonel Harland Sanders was adamant that his chicken be pan-fried while operating his first restaurant, but he was also unhappy with the fact that the traditional method took more than half an hour, far too long for a conventional restaurant. Sanders purchased one of the first commercial pressure cookers ever produced in 1939 and converted it into a pressure fryer (a very dangerous move, in hindsight), and found that the resulting chicken was just as good as his pan-fried chicken, and cooked in half the time. Not only did this development set the stage for KFC’s success, it also played a big role in taking fried chicken out of the home kitchen and into the restaurant.

A Buttermilk Brine is Essential

According to The Food Lab, brining the chicken in a spiced and salted buttermilk mixture will tenderize the chicken while also keeping it moist. Don’t skip this step!

There’s a Secret to Getting That “Craggy” Crust Every Time

Ever notice how Chick-Fil-A’s chicken seems to have that crunchy, craggy crust while KFC’s Original Recipe generally doesn’t? If you’re making fried chicken at home and want to make sure that your chicken has those coveted crags, just mix a couple spoonfulls of that buttermilk mixture into the dry breading mix, and let those extra little clumps of batter work their magic.

and from foodreference.com:

In Great Britain over three quarters of all litter from chicken production is used to generate electricity.

Our modern domesticated chickens are all descendants of the red jungle fowl of India and Southeast Asia. They have been domesticated for at least 4,000 years.

4,000 years ago the Egyptians built brick incubators which could hold 10,000 chicks at a time.

More than half of all chicken entrees ordered in restaurants are for fried chicken.

They looked at assessment and lesson ideas. Joyce, being a teacher herself, supplied the teachers with freebies and food. She said, "First day of 2019 for teachers and they were eager learners. here if it wasn’t or blood donations.”

The critical role of blood donors has been celebrated each January for nearly 50 years during National Blood Donor Month, which coincides with one of the most difficult times to maintain a sufficient blood supply for patients. Busy holiday schedules, extreme winter weather and seasonal illnesses often impact donor turnout this time of year.

The Red Cross encourages eligible donors to resolve to give blood regularly, beginning in January. To encourage donations immediately, all those who come to donate by Jan. 6 will get a long-sleeved Red Cross T-shirt, while supplies last.

Make an appointment to donate blood by downloading the free American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

Another way to help keep the blood supply strong in the new year is to host a Red Cross blood drive. To learn more about hosting a blood drive and to sign up, visit RedCrossBlood.org/HostADrive.

How to donate blood
Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver’s license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/ RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation’s blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission. For more information, please visit RedCross.org or CruzRojaAmericana.org, or visit us on Twitter at @RedCross.
